The Zeeguu exercises makes me more likely to study a foreign language often.

It is a more challenging way of learning a new language, instead of only learning simple sentences. I also like the fact that the articles are interesting as well.

It was challenging yet rewarding to be reading and exercising using complete sentences in a foreign language from the get-go. It was a bit overwhelming when I tried Hungarian, as I had to translate every word, but for a language more similar to Danish like Dutch, I found that I learned a lot of new words very quickly, because I had a baseline understanding; the exercises had a nice length, and challenged my knowledge in different ways, making it fun to practice. But I'd say it depends on the language. For example, I'm currently learning Mandarin and I think finding or choosing the correct symbol in a long sentence could become a little overwhelming for a beginner

It was not challenging. The exercises were too easy.

Det er en anderledes måde at lære et sprog at kende på. Ved at vælge ord, i stedet for at oversætte fulde sætninger, lærte jeg ordene ret hurtigt ud fra øvelserne. Selvom man kunne læse en oversat version af en tekst, lærte jeg desværre ikke den fulde sammenhæng når jeg skulle indsætte ord i en øvelse. Fordi jeg var bevidst om hvilket ord der manglede og hvad det betød, men ikke nødvendigvis den fulde betydning.

Det har været en sjov måde at lære sprog på. Det var fedt at kunne læse artikler med forskellige ord og vendinger, som man så kunne øve, men det var også en udfordring at lære den egentlige betydning af ordet i og med man nogle gange skulle lære ordet i den præcise sammenhæng.

Det var fedt, at der var forskellige måder, man skulle kunne indsætte ordet i rette sammenhæng/de forskellige øvelser, idet man skulle tænke sig om en ekstra gang hver gang. Det kunne til gengæld også hurtigt blive "udenadslæring" hvor man egentlig ikke huskede selve ordet men kun hvor det var i den enkelte sætning. Her kunne det være en fordel, hvis ordene også var blevet benyttet i andre sammenhænge, så man ikke bare skulle huske det fra sætningen i artiklen.

I dont know any spanish and i dont really have the time or interest in learning a new language right now

I think it is a good, convenient way of learning, but I do not have much motivation to study foreign languages at the moment

There seems to be technical difficulties, but there's is definitely potential that it will become motivational in language learning

Jeg fik ikke så meget ud af at læse en tekst på et fremmedsprog uden nogen form for forhåndsviden om sproget. Det betød at øvelserne mest af alt blev en gætteleg.

If I was actually to try and learn a new language it is good, but it doesn't learn you the words in the context that they were used in the articles

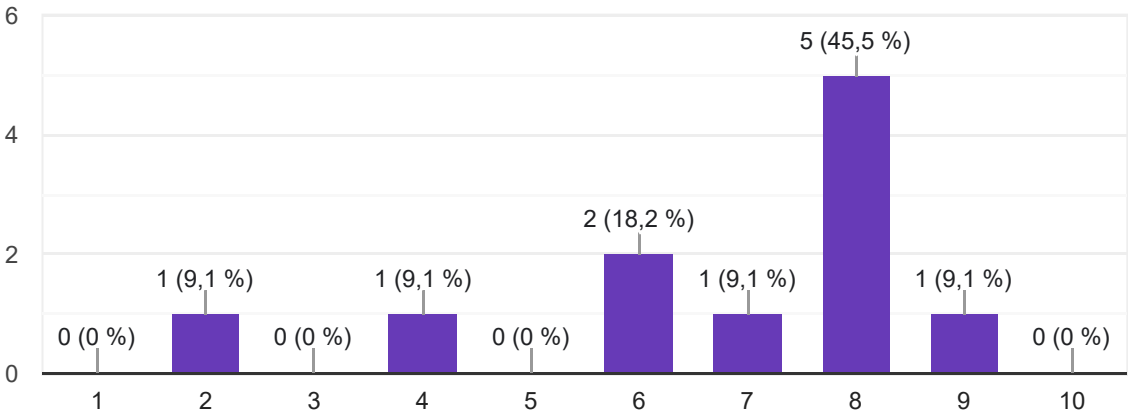

Would maybe like some gamification and to mix it up more

I believe completing Zeeguu exercises regularly would make me learn more words in the language I'm studying.

You learn new and difficult words everyday, and instead of spending time learning words you already know, you are only exercising the words you don't.

If learning == understanding their meaning, then definitely! I'm surprised at how many words I now recognize. I'm not sure I would be able to apply them in a sentence though, as I am missing the grammatical foundation

Repeating Words is a good way to learn and remember them..

Øvelserne er rigtig gode til at lære enkelte ord.

Ved ofte at lave øvelser ville man hurtigt kunne lære en stor mængde nye ord og vendinger. Især fordi hver enkelt artikel handler om et bestemt emne, som man så pludselig kan mange ord for (jeg læste fx en artikel om skyderier, død, frygtelig sorg, osv.) og det virkede som en stor fordel, at alle ordene nogenlunde omhandlede samme emne. Det ville til gengæld også have været fedt, hvis man fx kunne vælge bestemte grupper af ord, man gerne ville lære (fx udsagnsord), da jeg ikke følte, at jeg fik den basale grammatik med.

Because I would recognize the word because of the exercises

I think it is a good way to learn new words and the repeated exposure to those new words is a good way for them to stick in my head

Same as above

Teksterne på et fremmedsprog var for svære, så øvelserne blev mere gætteri end læring

If you did use it more regularly it would definitely help on learning new words

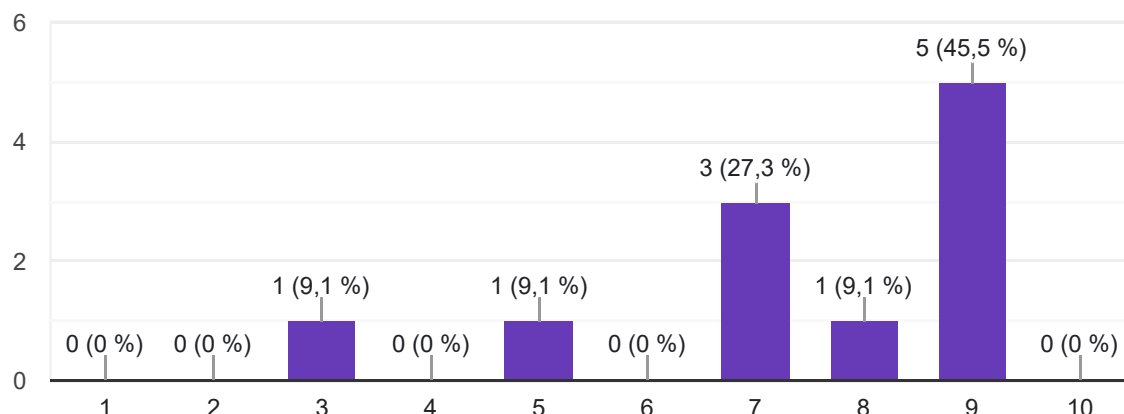

I don't think I would become fluent without more grammar exercises

I believe completing Zeeguu exercises regularly would make me remember learned words more efficiently.

The repetition of the words and exercises are a good way to get familiar with the words you don't know from the different articles.

I think I'd remember the words if I saw them, or if somebody asked me what they meant. But I'm not sure I'd be able to recall them if only I saw their translation.

See above.

De samme ord kom igen adskillige gange - selv efter man havde færdiggjort en øvelse/gruppe ord fra artiklen - hvilket var en fordel, så man skulle omstille hjernen til at huske ordene igen, selvom man var videre til en ny gruppe ord fra en ny artikel.

Because I would regularly see the words and have to memorize them

Same as above. The repetition and the different ways of rehearsing the words seem like it would make me remember the words

Måske hvis man læste den samme tekst igen og igen, at man ville huske ordene bedre. Men hvis man læser en ny tekst hver dag, ville der være for mange nye ord.

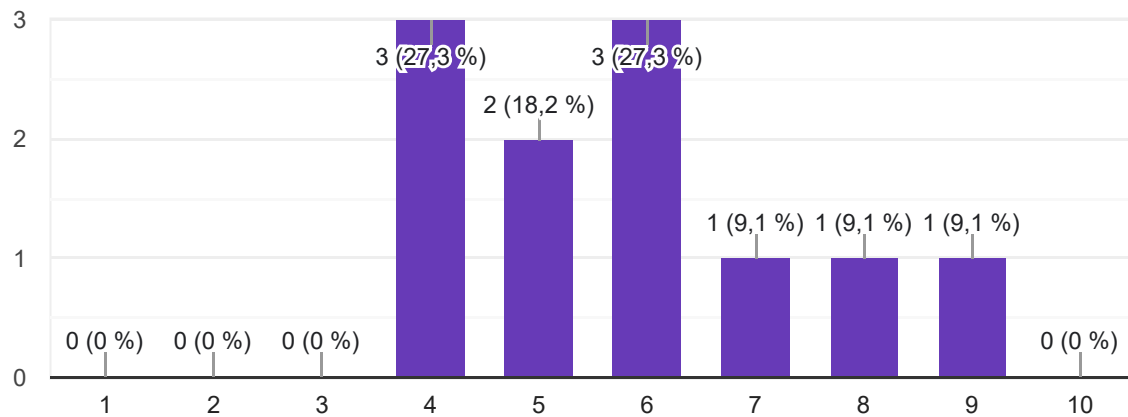

The repetition is good

How fun did you find the exercises?

There were only a couple variations to the exercises, and often they were quite easy and predictable.

It was also annoying that the exercises where you had to write didn't change your keyboard language, so it wasn't always intuitive to write in another language.

I think the exercises were fun! Maybe not video game "fun" 🤪, but as exercises for language learning they were different and rewarding enough that I found them fun to do

Too easy.

Det var øvelser, jeg havde prøvet før og har lært at de ofte virker godt.

Øvelser var fede, men det ville være fedt, hvis der var endnu flere slags øvelser.

Because it was fun to do the exercises and see how many words I could remember 🤪

Fun is a big word

Øvelserne var simple og gode

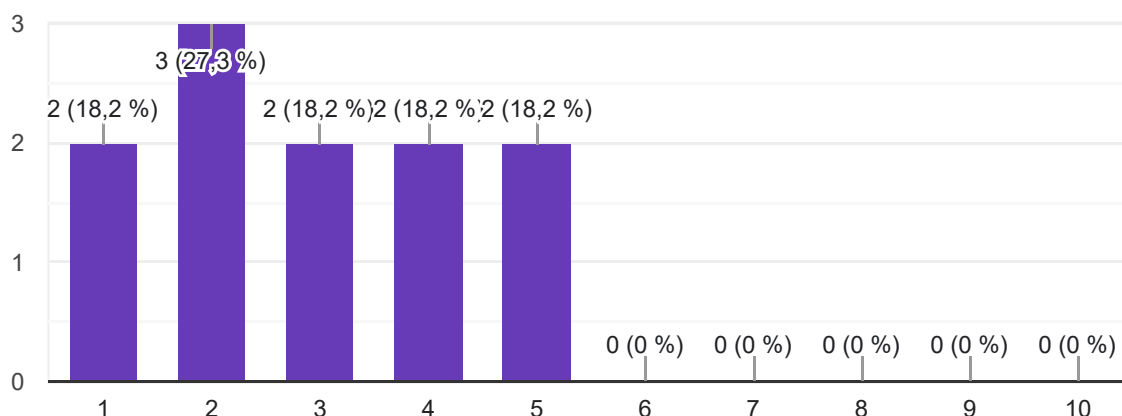

Kind of the same and no gamification

How difficult did you find the exercises?

The lack of variation and it was always the context the exercise words was presented in. Which makes it more of a memory game than a learning game.

In general, I found the difficulty to be good. I think the 3 options to choose from in the "match" and "choose" exercises was perfect for a beginner-level learner. If I were a more experienced learner, I'd maybe want some more options to choose from, in order to challenge myself. Sometimes, the "find" and "choose" exercises were a bit difficult with the more complex words.

De var meget lige til og ikke særligt svært for mit vedkommende.

Det blev hurtigt udenadslære.

I'm not good at Spanish

Most of the exercises put the words into a context where you can deduce the correct answer rather than having to remember them, hence it is not all that difficult

They were a quite repetitive, but easy and educational

De var simple og det var overskueligt at der ikke var for mange forskellige slags øvelser

I think I should have had more words in my list, I learned their meaning quite fast. Maybe adding similar words would be more challenging

Your thoughts on improvements for the Zeeguu exercises

What would improve your learning outcome when completing Zeeguu exercises?

10 svar

More variation. Harder exercises and uses of the words in other sentences than the one you just learned the word from.

More frequently article updated.

Many of articles where 10+ days old.

Sometimes I would guess the correct word by remembering their position in the text. I think my learning outcome would be improve if I were to find or choose my known words in excerpts I hadn't read before.

More interesting articles. More difficult exercises.

Som nævnt tidligere ville det være rart at kunne vælge grupper af ord, man gerne ville lære, flere slags øvelser og øvelser med ordene i andre sammenhænge.

My interest 😊

Maybe slightly more questions per exercise.

Maybe use a bit more gamification

More focus on verb conjugation and general grammar rather than just memorization of words

More variation and more transparency in what the exercises are about

Lettere og kortere tekster, hvor ord bliver gentaget ofte

When choosing words it would be nice to know the word in the context of the article

Gamification and more words that are added because they are similar

What changes/improvements to the Zeeguu exercises would make you more motivated to learn?

11 svar

More targeted article content. Maybe a vocal exercise and just more variation.

Maybe some more stats about my ongoing progress? Accuracy, total words learned, "you have the vocabulary of a X-year old" etc.

Articles with more interesting content.

Der var til tider, nogle gange, hvor jeg valgte nye ord og jeg så slettede gamle, jeg havde lært. Men så kom de nye valgte ikke og de gamle forblev alligevel. Det var lidt demotiverende.

Ovenstående svar :)

I don't really know, the exercises was fun. It's just my own interest that's the problem

Ensuring that I'm not presented with the same words as often - gets a bit repetitive
More focus on verb conjugation

Perhaps a sort of gamification similar to Duolingo where you level up or receive awards

Der var engang i mellem at Zeeguu ikke registrerede mine svar. Andre gange reagerede den ikke med "korrekt" når jeg valgte det korrekte svar.

Above answered

Changing it up more

What improvement would make the Zeeguu exercises more fun?

10 svar

Maybe a point system or level to keep track of your progress. And also a better website.

If I were to use Zeeguu for a longer period of time, I would maybe want some more exercises to change things up. Examples: listening, pronunciation, constructing sentences etc.

Måske en video-guide til hvordan siden og øvelserne virker?

Også ovenstående svar :)

I don't know. Maybe using the words in different sentences than the article

More variation, more types of exercises

Same as above

Gamification

Zeeguu is a nice and different way of learning a new language, however the articles are quite outdated, the website is not that user friendly and the exercises lack variation. It just needs polishing and then I'm sure zeeguu will shine!

The exercises were too easy.

For the first few times I was always presented with the same exercise when I launched the site. I had to click "Back to reading" before the exercise refreshed to a new one

When reading the articles for the first time there should be a sort of tutorial guiding you and explaining the purpose of each step. Same with the exercises. Also, there should be more variation in the exercises, unless I have completed the exercises the wrong way

Thank you so much!
