I am a master student at the IT University of Copenhagen and we are currently seeking language enthusiasts to join a study of Zeeguu – a personalized reading and vocabulary learning platform. By joining our study, you will contribute to research on making vocabulary acquisition more efficient and we hope you will discover a platform that is going to help you improve your own foreign language learning in a fun way.

Our research platform, Zeeguu, empowers you as a language learner, to dive into authentic online content in the language you are learning. Whether you're reading news articles, blog posts, or websites, Zeeguu seamlessly integrates with the web browser allowing you to instantly translate unfamiliar words. These words are then automatically made available in personalized exercises that are generated based on the original context in which you encountered the words.

If you are interested in trying out Zeeguu to improve your preferred language and are willing to use it for at least one week as part of our research study, please fill out this short questionnaire and we will get in touch with you as soon as possible: https://forms.gle/TAs8oAvoPmtE6oQ38

No matter where you are at in your language learning journey, your participation is invaluable in helping us optimize Zeeguu for other language learners like you.

The following languages are currently supported by Zeeguu: Danish, Dutch, English, French, German, Hungarian, Italian, Norwegian, Polish, Portuguese, Russian, Spanish, and Swedish.
